CONFIDENCE

RINGING literature is wide and varied. Many writers have with care and thought tried to explain in the simplest language the principles of bell-control, hunting and learning methods. Others have developed the theory of composition and the more complicated matters of proof, while the students of higher mathematics have recently had placed at their disposal a treatise on ringing reduced to pure mathematics.

It is not the Editor's intention to indulge in an article for the erudite on the higher flights of mental gymnastics but to present certain simple and perplexing things that spoil enjoyment in ringing, not only for beginners but for those who regard their knowledge and at times proficiency in the art as well above the average in ringing.

These thoughts are embraced in one word, 'confidence.' Its lack is the enemy of most beginners and is probably the cause of the loss of more recruits to the Exercise than any other source. The realisation that man is the master of the bell and that he has only to apply an elementary degree of intelligence to control at his will several hundredweights of metal, has to be instilled firmly in the mind of each entrant. Some ringers, although they handle perfectly and their ears are attuned to perfect striking, are perpetually conscious of the mass of metal that constitutes the bells. 'I was only scared of a bell once,' remarked a veteran ringer to the writer on one occasion. 'That was when I looked down and saw the huge tenor of St. Paul's revolving. It made me feel my puny insignificance.'

Bells are not toys; nevertheless there should be nothing terrifying about them. The mechanism of the bell should be perfectly understood by each novice as well as the principles of control that exist should a stay break. The physical control of mind and body is essential in ringing. That is why continual practice and the complete mastery of the bell are vital before any advance can be made in the principles of change ringing. The writer is old-fashioned enough to believe that there is no short cut. It is practice, practice and practice, until bell control becomes a sub-conscious act, and the ability to cut in the proper way is an automatic action. Early errors are rarely satisfactorily eradicated, and these are at the root of much of the bad striking, coupled with the fact that there are ringers who do not listen to their own bells. Some months ago a well-known instructor in an article made this testing of the ears of would-be recruits an essential before admission to the belfry.

Unfortunately 'confidence' is not mastered by bell control. It enters into each succeeding stage of ringing. The problem is closely allied with psychology. Many ringers never advance beyond the stage of mediocrity because they are obsessed by an inferiority complex. They are invariably intelligent people; many, in fact, have their mental faculties highly developed in other directions, but they fail to apply that degree of concentration that they would normally employ in other walks of life to the mastery of change ringing.

Why is it? Ringing, like any other pursuit or hobby if the individual desires to reach the front rank, must be a No. 1 in his attention. It calls for a strong measure of specialisation. A correspondent once wrote to the Editor a personal letter in which he deplored that very few of the outstanding personalities in life were ringers. 'Point to a really great man who is a bellringer,' he challenged. The Editor duly replied; it is well known that there are in our ranks people of many callings, but what we desire to emphasise is that the mastery of ringing requires at the time a 100 per cent. concentration.

Nevertheless, there are many who enjoy their ringing and make it their main recreation who fail because of an inferiority complex. We know of ringers capable of performing satisfactorily on a wide variety of methods in their own towers who seem to 'go to pieces' when in the presence of certain of the masters of our art. It is just the lack of that self-confidence that prevents them demonstrating to that degree they know they are capable of. Some might say it is 'the magnetic eye' or 'the evil eye.' The answer can only rest with the individual and an inner determination not to be disturbed by outside influences. A too vivid imagination is also a big contributory factor. The essence of successful peal ringing is a 'one-track' mind during the performance. This self-discipline is just the margin between success and failure. The securing of that perfect discipline is attainable if heart and mind are in the particular task at hand.

'THE RINGING WORLD'

The Official Journal of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers

EDITORIAL OFFICE: c/o Woodbridge Press, Ltd., Guildford, Surrey.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:

EDWIN H. LEWIS, M.A. (President of Council).

GEORGE W. FLETCHER (Hon. Secretary of Council), The White House, Caister-on-Sea, Norfolk.

A. A. HUGHES, J.P. (Hon. Treasurer), 34, Whitechapel Road, E.1.

MRS. E. K. FLETCHER.

EDITOR: T. W. WHITE.

'The Ringing World' was founded in the year 1911 by John Sparkes Goldsmith, who remained its proprietor and editor until his death in 1942.

LATE NEWS.

Mr. R. Hayes, of Haslemere, Surrey, died suddenly on Friday.

The dedication of Burnham bells last Sunday by the Bishop of Oxford created widespread interest. B.B.C. television cameras were in attendance.

Congratulations to Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council, on ringing his 250th peal. The honour of calling the peal was greatly appreciated by Mr. T. E. Sone.

Messrs. S. G. Waters and M. S. Cloke have rung Grandsire from Doubles to Caters in a week as well as three other peals.

Mr. John Clements, of Bromyard, Herefordshire, conducted his father's first peal. How many sons have had a similar privilege?

After ringing on and off for nearly 50 years, Mr. C. W. Beecroft, of Earl Soham, Suffolk, has just rung his first Surprise peal. Congratulations!

Tower 'circles': W. J. Button and F. L. Fisher, Ufford, Suffolk; Garnham A. Blaxcell, Debenham, Suffolk; George W. Pipe, Burgh, Suffolk.

Mr. W. J. Nudds writes informing Mr. James George that he participated in the three peals of Stedman Cinques at Quex Park in 24 hours in 1905. Another correspondent mentions two other survivors: John R. Sharman, Cogenhoe, Northants, and H. P. Harman.

In connection with the Henry Johnson dinner on March 4th, the accommodation at the Imperial Hotel is limited to 180. No bedrooms are available at the 'Imperial.' A room for ringers will be at their disposal on Sunday at the Midland Hotel, New Street, City. Those applying to the 'Midland' for accommodation should mention the purpose of their visit.

Barwell, Leics., ringers held a farewell party on New Year's Eve to the Rev. J. D. Wakeling, their secretary and curate, who has accepted an appointment at Cambridge. They hope that their Cambridge friends will carry on with his training where they were forced to leave off.

BELFRY GOSSIP

More than one ringer has written to the Midland Bank protesting against their January advertisement. Writes one critic to the bank: 'I wonder if you realise that the depicting of bellringers handling the ropes with their coats on is an affront to the ringers of England, who, to a man, always take off their coats and ring in their shirt sleeves.' The bank acknowledged the complaint with a handsome calendar for 1950.

The winners and answers of our Christmas Quiz will appear in our next issue.

St. Mary Magdalene's, Holloway, band rang 35 quarter peals for Sunday services during 1950, in which 42 ringers shared.

Mr. Harry Poyner, of Leicester, has during 1949 completed peals of Grandsire Doubles to Cinques on handbells, all with an 'inside' pair.

Regarding the peal of Double Oxford Bob Major at Warminster (tenor 28 cwt.), Mr. A. Patrick Cannon claims that this is the heaviest tenor rung to a peal in this multi-dodging method.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baldwin, of Chesterton Lane, Cirencester, on their diamond wedding. They were married at Little Snoring, Norfolk, on December 31st, 1889. Mr. Baldwin, who is 87 years of age, was until recently an active Cirencester ringer.

An interesting 720 of Plain Bob Minor was that by the Moor family at Hethersett, Norfolk, on December 28th. Ringers: Selina Moor 1, Lucy Moor 2, Mrs. Frewen Moor 3; Christopher Moor (cond.) 4, Dr. Frewen Moor 5, John Moor 6.

Appropos the peal of Lincolnshire reported on page 4, we are asked to state that Miss Margaret Fidell had previously rung a peal in the method. It was the seven males in the band who rang the method without any previous practice.

UNIVERSITIES' ASSOCIATION REUNION ANNUAL DINNER AT CROYDON

The winter reunion of the Universities Association of Change Ringers was held at Croydon on January 4th. The programme included a visit to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's foundry; a service in the Croydon Parish Church, taken by the Rev. A. C. F. Davies, assisted by the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg. The lessons were read by Dr. E. St. J. Hatcher and Mr. E. H. Lewis, and the Archdeacon of Croydon preached. Ringing was at St. John's and St. Peter's, arranged by Mr. Dennis N. Layton, who also planned the peal attempts. The service, dinner and local accommodation were arranged by the Rev. A. C. F. Davies.

The president (Mr. E. H. Lewis) presided at the dinner, held at the Greyhound, when the guest of honour was the Archdeacon of Croydon. Others present were the Revs. C. Elliot Wigg (vice-president), A. G. G. Thurlow, A. C. F. Davies, K. W. H. Felstead and F. L. Edwards, Dr. E. St. John Hatcher (hon. secretary).

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Corby, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. P. Gray, the Misses M. Cross, Betty Spice, H. J. Whettam, A. B. Stockdale, J. A. Southerst, Frances Edgar, Benedicta Whistler, M. Kenneley.

Messrs. A. York-Bramble, E. M. Atkins, H. Michael Howard, R. W. M. Clouston, J. P. Crawley, J. R. Worrall, A. R. Guy, Ivor H. Truman, P. T. Robbins, W. E. Court, P. R. Layton, P. R. Blackman, R. F. B. Speed, S. A. Jarman, C. G. Woodhead, G. Dodds, L. C. I. Watson, W. Leese, M. W. H. Gray, P. C. Wright, F. P. Wright, A. S. Wett, R. Meadows, V. J. Benning, D. N. Layton, F. E. Haynes, G. F. Carter and T. W. White.

The toast of 'The Church' was proposed by Mr. E. H. Lewis and responded to by the Archdeacon of Croydon.

In his reply, the Archdeacon said a school-boy was asked, 'What is the Church?' and gave as his answer, 'The Church is one foundation.' The Association had come to a place closely associated with the Church throughout the centuries. Just at the back of that building was the Old Palace of Croydon, which was the home of the Archbishops of Canterbury for 800 years.

There had been vicars of Croydon since 900 A.D. Croydon was a place that had grown enormously. Until 1827 there was only one church; to-day they had 29 parish churches, 14 railway stations and a population of 249,000.

Mr. H. Michael Howard (Messrs. Gillett and Johnston), who proposed the toast of 'The Association,' also extended a welcome to the company to Croydon, which, he said, was one of the centres of English bell founding.

'We, as bellfounders, in company with our colleagues at Whitechapel and Loughborough, are endeavouring to keep up the great heritage of English bell founding, and we are most happy to show ringers what is being done and how every possible means is being taken to improve and assist the practice and science of change ringing.'

'I feel that ringing is a marvellously democratic pastime that appeals to every section of the community, and the universities should not be behindhand in their representation.' He wished the Association every success.

The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, who replied, said he could only say the Association was a very happy family—at least it was twice a year when they met, coming from the four quarters of the Kingdom. He suggested that the Association should keep a family album giving details of their members.

GILBERT'S FIRST OF DOUBLES.

In humorous vein, the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow proposed 'The Exercise.' He said that only last Saturday he rang the treble to his first peal of Doubles (prolonged cheers), so he felt he had the qualification of knowing something the College Youths' dinner they were expecting Canon Coleridge, who was 92, to propose the toast, but unfortunately he had a fall that morning from which he never recovered. But another College Youth came forward, who was only 86, to take his place.

CLERGY RINGERS WANTED.

He would like to emphasise what he said at Lincoln and hoped that among the U.A.C.R. there were some ordinands. To-day the really competent clergymen ringers were very much fewer than in his youth. In each diocese there ought to be one clergyman who knew more about ringing than the ringers and could give the ringers a real lead. About a year ago he was asked to find in his county a parson who could preach a ringers' sermon. He knew of not a single one who could preach an appropriate sermon with the result that he had to do it himself.

He appealed to U.A.C.R. to catch their ordinands before they put on their dog collars. Looking back 30 or 40 years he remembered that those clergy who could strike had learnt to ring before they were ordained.

In wishing the company a happy New Year, Mr. Lewis regretted that he would be unable to join the Association this summer, as he had to work rather hard and a quiet holiday was essential for him. One thing he was determined. He would never become a civil servant, and if the election went the wrong way his trade was liable to be nationalised. In that case he would have very much more time for ringing.

THE BUSINESS MEETING.

The business meeting followed. Dr. Hatcher reported apologies from Mr. A. A. Hughes and Mr. George Cross. Among their members, Lieut.-Comdr. Gordon Cross was now at sea and said he might be with them if they held their week at Hong Kong!

The hon. secretary reported a balance in hand of £14 3s. 5d. and announced that there was a profit of £2 14s. 2d. on the Exeter week.

Reporting on the Association, Dr. Hatcher said the number of members who had joined the society was 285. In 1946, 27 were considered to be inactive and they had lapsed them. He had carried out another census and the number he had had no news of, either direct or indirect, was 63. He proposed that they should cease to be active, which reduced the membership to 192, representing 14 different universities.

The election of the following new members was ratified: Oxford: E. H. Edge, K. M. Grayson, J. G. M. Scott, E. B. Wood, D. Edwards, W. G. Thomas, F. Wright, the Misses M. E. Roe, P. M. Warehorn, R. Buchthal, C. A. Isles, D. J. Borer. Cambridge: M. N. Bland, A. R. Gray, H. M. Howard. Bristol: R. Stokes. London: Miss A. Bowers, Miss Margaret Paton, J. Crawley.

NOTTINGHAM WEEK DIFFICULTIES.

THREE OLD VETERANS of All Saints', Asfordby, who have together given 160 years' service in the belfry of this Leicestershire church. They are, from left to right: Stephen Read (76), 45 years, having previously rung at Easton, Hunts; Evander L. Littlewood (76), 60 years; Ernest Edward Lomas (75), 55 years. They all ring regularly, and rang to herald in 1950.

Standing behind are those who rang a peal of Minor as a birthday compliment to the old ringers—viz.: E. Morris, J. H. Cook, R. Looker, H. T. Bonshor, D. Toon, A. Thompson (not in the peal) and H. Bell (captain).

about the Exercise and not in the category of those who know nothing at all. He only wished he knew enough about the subject to make a speech, but for those who desired to know more he would advise them to buy his book, price 5s. (laughter).

The wonderful thing about ringing was it went on spontaneously, whether the vicars liked it or not. In West Norfolk the Education Committee was paying a ringer a guinea a week to teach ringing, providing that the class was not limited to members of the Church of England. He hoped that ringers would not only increase in numbers, but in certain places in brotherly love. They knew that a spontaneous activity could only continue to exist if that brotherly love between all and sundry went on.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, who replied, said he was a little amused at advice on brotherly love coming from Norwich. They all knew of that story of the early days of the ringers of St. Peter's, Mancroft, when some of them were sent home with 'blood on their noses.'

One of the things about ringing was the great age to which ringers lived. It was now nearly 50 years since he started to ring. At

Universities' Assn. Reunion

Nottingham from August 18th to 26th, about 50 hoped to come. Unfortunately, they had not succeeded in finding accommodation. Alternative suggestions were Lincoln and Birmingham.—It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of Dr. Hatcher and the committee.

The Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow announced that if the Association decided to visit Norwich again he would endeavour to find accommodation.

Future activities were discussed. The suggestion of quarterly meetings was rejected. Miss Betty Spice thought the holding of exclusive meetings would be regarded by the Exercise as undemocratic and rather 'snooty.'

Mr. Dennis N. Layton agreed. The experience of London University Association was that joint meetings with territorial associations were most successful.

Another suggestion was the holding of meetings for the reading of scientific papers on ringing matters.

Mr. York-Bramble said the Association was founded with one expressed object, that its members should go down from the universities and spread the knowledge of ringing. The idea of learned discussions on scientific matters was not then in view.

The meeting decided to let the matter lie on the table.

Another suggestion was a register of members with addresses for circulation. This was left to the secretary to consider as to price.

On the Thursday there were peal attempts at Godstone and Christ Church, Epsom

WHITTLE-LE-WOODS ROMANCE

The marriage took place at Whittle-le-Woods Parish Church on December 31st of Ruth, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bradley, and Walter, younger son of Mr. F. and the late Mrs. Mansley, of Walton-le-Dale. The ceremony was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. Read), assisted by the Rev. John Ginnever, B.A., a friend of the bride.

The bride and bridegroom are both ringers, and their fellow-ringers saluted the event with a beautifully struck peal of Stedman Triples, which will be recorded elsewhere.

After a reception at the Pines Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Mansley left for a short holiday in the Lake district amid the hearty congratulations of a numerous company of relations and friends.

OUTING TO NORTHAMPTONSHIRE

On December 27th, eight ringers from the Bedford district visited a number of towers to the south and east of Northampton. This locality is suitable for a day's ringing outing because within a comparatively short distance of each other there are many rings of bells. This feature enabled these eight ringers in two cars to visit ten churches during the day.

We began well at Yardley Hastings (6) and Easton Maudit (5). We survived the rough heavy ring at Castle Ashby (5) and the long, guideless draught at Whiston (5), where the church is lit by candles, to have some excellent ringing on the light ring of six at Cogenhoe. At Brafield-on-the-Green (5) we were reinforced by some Cambridge Royalists, who had been defeated at Leighton Buzzard that morning. We then found our way to the fives of Little Houghton, Hardingstone and Wootton, ending the day on the six at Piddington.

Eighteen methods were rung, up to Stedman and London Bob Doubles on five and Spliced Surprise on six.

We were warmly received by the local clergy and ringers, the latter delighting to recount to us stories of ringers of a seemingly bygone age. To visit these grey-walled villages, built entirely with local stone, and to talk with the men who ring there, was indeed a pleasure.

Golden Wedding

MR. AND MRS. J. E. R. KEEN

The Ringing Master of the Newcastle Cathedral Guild, Mr. J. E. R. Keen, was a very far-sighted man when he arranged to be married to Miss Margaret Lumsden at St. Silas', Newcastle, on January 2nd, 1900. He was far-sighted because that arrangement caused his golden wedding to fall on a day when his fellow-ringers on Tyneside were on their day's holiday for the New Year.

The arrangements for the celebration were successfully carried through with a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on the 'Dixon Eight' at Newcastle Cathedral, the band including the president, general secretary and other officials of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association. (Unfortunately, the tenor of the twelve is out of commission and awaiting attentions of the bellhanger, so the light eight only were available. The last part of the preceding sentence would be contested by the Ringing Master, for he would point out that the 'minor ten' were still available!)

A congratulatory telegram was despatched by the peal band just prior to the start of the peal, but later, while partaking of the refreshment generously provided by Mr. Keen, an opportunity for congratulations in person occurred when Joe was able to make a short appearance for the second time, having managed to get down to listen for a while when the peal was in progress. The congratulations were coupled with the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Keen would have many more years together.

'Joe' Keen joined the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association in 1892 and is now one of its oldest members. With over three hundred peals to his credit for this Association he holds the record as its most prolific peal ringer, and, in his younger days especially, was a fine heavy-bell ringer. He was a member of the old paid ringing guild at Newcastle Cathedral, but left prior to its final break-up.

After an interval at St. John's he became a member of the present Newcastle Cathedral Guild, a voluntary band formed by the late C. L. Routledge about 1913. When Mr. Routledge died in 1945, Joe succeeded him as Ringing Master and he has proved a very popular head of the Guild. May he be spared to continue in office for many ears yet.

WRINGTON RINGERS' SUPPER

That hardy annual of the West Country, the Wrington ringers' supper, took place on January 5th, when a company of 21, including the Rector, the Rev. Arthur Talbot, ringing friends from neighbouring towers and the local band, sat down to the really excellent repast one has come to expect at this yearly gathering.

When the inner man had been satisfied, there was handbell ringing, with lapped changes as well as the more orthodox method.

A diversion was created when two of the locals entered wearing firemen's helmets, having been announced as the brass hats; this might not have much significance elsewhere, but the special monthly practices held at Wrington on the first Saturdays are known to the irreverent younger element as the 'brass hats' meetings, and everyone caught the allusion. There was an unfortunate sequel when the wearer of one such ornamental headpiece replaced his helmet, only to find it had been used as a receptacle for the dregs from the glasses!

Instead of concluding with the customary sing-song, the evening closed with a film show of quite professional standards, which all thoroughly enjoyed.

The only speech-making of the evening was the warm thanks of the Rector to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Knight for arranging the supper.

OBITUARY

MR. HARRY COLLINS.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Harry Collins, the hon. secretary of the St. Michael's Guild, Braintree, Essex, aged 68 years.

Harry Collins started ringing at an early age and in his younger days rang a few peals. Unfortunately, through a difference of opinion he left the Exercise about 30 years ago and did not rejoin the local company until just after the war. Since then he had been a very keen ringer, attending regularly for Sunday service ringing.

The funeral took place on January 8th and was attended by members of the local company. In the evening a quarter peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung with the bells half-muffled as a farewell tribute.

MR. J. E. FLINT.

The Melton Mowbray district has lost another ringer by the death of Mr. John Edward Flint, of Kirby Bellars, who died on January 8th, aged 71.

A ringer for 50 years, Mr. Flint had lived at Kirby Bellars for 34 years, and had also served the church as churchwarden. Last September he celebrated his golden wedding.

On January 14th, a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles (half-muffled) was rung at St. Peter's Church to his memory by J. Gilson 1, E. Littlewood 2, J. H. Cook (cond.) 3, H. Bell 4, H. Clayton 5. The same team rang for his golden wedding on September 3rd last.

MR. CHARLES R. FORFITT.

On December 31st, Mr. Charles R. Forfitt, of Bourne-mouth St. Peter's, passed away at the age of 87 years. The many visitors to Bourne-mouth will remember Charlie, who in between the touches used to sit in his favourite place underneath the clock in St. Peter's tower.

Of late years he had helped considerably with the training of young ringers, with whom he was a firm favourite, so that when the doctor firmly said early in 1948, 'No more ringing,' Charlie used to occasionally break the rule to climb the 64 steps to 'come and watch,' as he said. However, if his favourite fifth seemed to be neglected for a touch (sometimes purposely) he would see her through a short touch.

Charlie Forfitt, like his friend, Eli Waters, who died earlier in 1949, served St. Peter's faithfully for nearly 50 years, rarely being late or missing a practice. He had rung many peals in standard methods, but a complete record is not available.

The funeral service was in St. Peter's Church on January 2nd, followed by interment in Wimborne Road Cemetery.

The Rev. J. Coutts, a member of St. Peter's company and assistant priest, officiated, and Andrew Pearmain played the organ. The bells were rung half-muffled before and after the service, whilst A. I. Pearmain 1-2, B. B. Rogers 3-4, A. V. Davis 5-6, J. V. Davis 7-8, rang a course of Grandsire Triples at the graveside after the committal.

MRS. F. J. JOHNSON.

The death occurred on January 4th at Evesham Hospital of Mrs. F. J. Johnson, widow of the late Frederick J. Johnson, of Hinton-on-the-Green. Mrs. Johnson was an honorary member of the Worcestershire and Districts Association and is survived by two sons and six daughters, all of whom are ringers. Her eldest son is the present general secretary of the Worcestershire Association.

The interment took place at Hinton-on-the-Green on January 7th, and the service, conducted by the Rev. F. C. Champion, was attended by a large number of friends and ringers. Members of the local band rang handbells over the grave, and afterwards rang touches half-muffled on the tower bells, assisted by other association members. Later in the day a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung.

SHIPWAY AND STEADFAST

Dear Sir,—Your correspondents, Mr. George 'I-alone-understand' Baker and Mr. E. A. '120-years-too-late' Barnett do the Exercise a service, in that they furnish an excellent example (and warning) of what has too often occurred (sadly enough) in the past—i.e., fruitless controversy, falsely based, giving readers generally wrong impressions.

Perhaps I may surprise them by adding further apparent support to their contention, and recalling (what even Mr. Baker's omniscience seems to have overlooked!) that long ago in the 'Bell News' William Hale, on page 65 of Vol. 6, quoted figures which superficially give the same method as that which, in Shipway's 'Campanologia,' is called his 'Principle.'

The fact remains, of course, that of all these methods the fundamental principle is attributable solely to Stedman. No originality on that score was, or could be, claimed for Steadfast. This method has a new feature, however, as reaffirmed below, and, as such, was no doubt rung for the first time last year.

But no serious student of method structure to-day would attribute originality to Shipway for the principle inherent in his method, any more than recognise his Royal version as genuine 'Superlative.' It is a function of Grid Analysis to extract the residual values in these things; and it yields Steadfast, as a method of portraying Stedman's principle on even numbers, entirely symmetrical in structure. This is quite true in spite of the flat contradiction of Mr. Baker, who apparently has not realised that two distinct methods, Original and Plain Bob, for example, may have the identical grid pattern, with differing grid-links. (A further example is Cambridge and Primrose.)

If the Steadfast figures already published are compared with these here, Hale's above-mentioned (Mr. Baker's, of course, are his own version), readers may see for themselves that it is Steadfast that conforms with the fundamental principle of Stedman, in having simply forward hunting in the quick sets and backward hunting in the slow sets, i.e., in the work of the front group. In this sense it was offered as something new 'for practice' in the New Year. Mr. Baker achieves no technical improvement by what is simply, in plain language, splitting up the sets so as to give the good old 'magic circle' set-end figures. And surely he has not forgotten that even some peals of Stedman are rung starting, not in the conventional way, but at the parting of the sixes!—Yours very truly,

A. YORK-BRAMBLE.

LAVENHAM RECORDING

Dear Sir,—I am rather at a loss to understand how a ringer could mix up Grandire and Stedman, also Westminster Abbey bells, with those of Lavenham, as the Abbey bells are lacking that soft mellow tone which makes Lavenham the pride of Suffolk.

The recording in question has been used by the B.B.C. on quite a number of occasions, in fact it's a close runner to the Bow Bells signal.

It was made for and broadcast for the first time in the 'St. George's Day' programme in 1948, the producer being Mr. Maurice Brown. It is a complete plain course of Stedman, the band being all pupils of the late Arthur Symonds.

As the B.B.C. seem to realise it is good, I mark it as one of the finest memorials a man could have, especially as there were 58 more of his pupils who could 'strike 'em' just as well.—Yours sincerely,

LESLIE MILLS.

IN DEFENCE OF STEDMAN

Dear Sir,—The last sentence in the postscript of Mr. T. R. Butler's letter this week, 'Are we to take it that Stedman is now becoming extinct?' is something which I have been wondering for some time. Why is it that so (comparatively) few peals of Stedman Triples are rung nowadays?

It is never wasted time to ring peals of Stedman Triples (in fact, if Stedman were the only method in existence ringing would still be worth while), and no matter how many peals of it one has rung, there is still the feeling of 'something accomplished' every time.

And what of the conductor? If the ringer can be proud of his performance the conductor can be doubly so. The conductor of one peal of Stedman Triples has accomplished far more than one who has called 40 peals of Surprise.—Yours faithfully,

E. BARNETT.

CHIMES IN 'HAMLET'

Dear Sir,—The B.B.C. and the Americans are not the only ones with an astonishing lack of knowledge concerning bells.

In the famous British film, 'Hamlet,' there is a scene during which the 'Westminster' chimes can be heard. The action of the film takes place in Denmark somewhere about the 10th century, I believe, but the Westminster or more properly the Cambridge chimes were not composed until 1790.

THE FIRST FOUR PEALS IN A DAY

Dear Sir,—I should like to congratulate the ringers under the conductorship of Mr. Poole for their achievement in ringing four peals in one day. I know what it is, as I was the conductor in ringing four peals of Minor when living at Sheerness-on-Sea, referred to in your last issue of 'The Ringing World.' It does, as you say, require a good bit of stamina, both mentally and physically.

No doubt the travelling facilities are much different now to what they were when we rang our peals. I expect they had cars to take them to their separate towers, whereas we had to depend on cycling. There were no buses running at that time. I had 13 miles to cycle across country roads to start our first peal at 6.45. This meant rising at 4.30 to have breakfast. Between each peal there was a distance of 4 to 5 miles to cycle, sometimes more. The last peal was started about 7 in the evening, and then an 11-mile ride back home, which I reached just before midnight, well satisfied with our day's enjoyment.

Two or three of the ringers taking part are still doing a bit of ringing for service and peal ringing as well as myself. Good luck and success to the Leicester band.—Yours sincerely,

W. H. B. WILKINS.

INSTRUCTORS

Dear Sir,—The remarks of Mr. Lewis at the recent Lincoln dinner are worthy of attention. He did not say how the standard could be raised, and he might also have added that the men or women capable of doing the job are not as plentiful as they used to be.

Nearly every association has as one of its objects the provision of competent instructors for towers where they are needed. This is very rarely carried out, as witness Mr. R. H. Dove's tilt last summer, viz., that associations are more concerned in building up huge bank balances than in providing instruction where it is badly needed.

Here is something which all association committees could look into. A panel could be prepared of those willing and competent to teach. Expenses should be granted or recovered from the people concerned. This is controversial, but everybody's circumstances are not the same, and if the tutor does not want his expenses, so much the better. The great thing is that an effort should be made to wipe out the black spots.—Yours faithfully,
E. R. MARTIN.

AN OLD BELL

Dear Sir,—Referring to Mr. Flint's letter, I would say, without going very deeply into the matter, this bell would probably be a sanctus, and most likely from the Nottingham foundry of Oldfield, which flourished at this period. We have an example of a 'Madonna stamp' on the tenor bell at Thurstaston, Leics., which came from this foundry, c. 1560.

ERNEST MORRIS.

Leicester.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter by Mr. Flint in your last issue, it is not possible from his description of the small bell to tell for what reason it has been used. It may have been used for any purpose requiring a small bell of this type. If Mr. Flint would send me a photograph of the bell and a rubbing of the date letters, I will do my best to identify its founder. From the description he gives, however, I strongly suspect that the bell is foreign.—Yours truly,

FREDERICK SHARPE.

ST. CUTHBERT'S, EDINBURGH

Dear Sir,—Sorry for the delay in not writing before to point out an error (or a misleading sentence) in No. 2,019, December 16th, re 'The Bells of Scotland.'

I spent a week in Edinburgh in September and really enjoyed ringing Grandsire Triples for Sunday service, both morning and evening, at St. Cuthbert's, an excellent eight. They ring regularly on Sundays and, I understand, practise in the winter months.

The statement, 'Proximity to important building prevents them being rung except on national occasions' is misleading to anyone visiting Edinburgh and would be a pity for a ringer to miss such a fine ring and beautiful bell.—Yours faithfully,
C. GIMBERT.
Sutton, Ely, Cambs.

P.S.—Wife says my visit could not have been 'a national occasion.'—C.G.

THE PEAL AT LISKEARD

Dear Sir,—While on tour with a band with the late W. Pye, I took part in a peal of Cambridge on these bells on September 8th, 1913. The peal was rung for the Devonshire Guild. The footnote states, 'The first peal in the method in the county.'

MAINLY FOR BEGINNERS (2)

(A Series of Open Letters)

Dear Beginners,—Since my last letter that successful instructor, Tom Truetouch, has kindly offered to take us on in his tower. So let's go along. As one of the preliminaries to the first stage of 'bell control,' Tom's intelligent approach is to take us up to the bells themselves. So, leaving one of his band, Mary Makebob, with certain instructions in the ringing chamber below, we go aloft, following Tom's instructions implicitly.

First we note the size and obvious weight of the bells, all 'hanging' in the strongly-built 'frame,' their 'headstocks' mounted in 'bearings,' allowing free swinging of each bell in its 'pit.' We observe the large 'wheel' fixed to the headstock, with the rope running in its rim channel and down through the floor. Now Tom takes hold of the rope where it leaves the wheel and pulls down on it. The bell swings a little and strikes its note as the rope goes down. Tom tells us this is 'chiming.'

Now it stops and Tom gives a few short lifts to the hanging rope, as a sign to Mary below. We stand clear as the bell begins to move again, chimed by Mary from the ringing chamber. This chiming seems a little overdone by Mary! Her bell swings higher and higher, and now sounds as the rope comes up, as well as on the down-stroke.

The bell is being 'raised,' says Tom, as it turns completely mouth upwards and pauses at the top of the swing, held balanced there by Mary's skill. Between strokes Tom tells us this is 'ringing' proper. Now the bell goes just over the top position and stops altogether. Tom says it's 'up' and 'set,' and he points out how its 'stay' engages its 'slider' against the 'stop.'

We look into the upturned bell and notice the clapper-bell resting against the lower side of the bell, while Tom tells us that heavy bells need raising with care to prevent them being 'clappered wrong,' i.e., going up with clapper resting on the upper side. He lifts the rope up from below, showing us that Mary is no longer holding the bell in balance, and he points out the possible results of over-pulling, with broken stays!

But we stand back, since the lifted rope was also a signal to Mary. A pause, and off goes the bell again, swinging less and less high at each quickening stroke until 'down.' Having been 'lowered,' she is now chiming once more. Now that we've seen what is 'up top' and what happens at the upper end of a rope, Tom tells us we'll go down and have a pull ourselves. This encourages us; and although it will be just to try chiming, at this very early stage, yet we are to be allowed actually to make a bell sound 'by ourselves,' right away!

Back in the ringing chamber Tom points to the 'circle' of ropes (we'll suppose there are eight) running round in musical scale order from the highest note—the 'treble'—to the lowest note and heaviest bell—the 'tenor.' Reminding us that the bells are all 'down,' he takes hold of the tufted part of the treble's rope—its 'sally'—and chimes the bell. We observe Tom's action for this and listen to the bell's note. On eight bells, of course, this is the upper 'doh' of the scale. Tom now points to the rope of the bell we have seen rung (say, the third), and asks us to hum its note, which we attempt by reckoning down three from 'doh'; thus, 'doh, te, lah.' We listen as Tom chimes her. Were we right in 'lah'?

This is perhaps the most important part of our introduction to change ringing, for it is our first step in tone-felling, or picking out a bell by its note. It is the foundation of good striking, as Tom tells us, for we must get that particular note of our bell to sound correctly in a set time-interval as small as one-quarter of a second!

Now, says Tom, it's our turn. He indicates the long part of each rope below its sally, called the 'rope's end,' tied up in a loop to keep it off the floor, and the mat immediately below, to save the rope from floor-chafing and dust collecting during actual 'ringing.' We learn that it's part of our job to set the mat right before we start ringing; but more important still is our own position and action.

So we follow Tom's example and step up to our rope (the third). But before we touch it we get our position right, as this is the same for chiming as for ringing. Standing on the outside of the rope-circle, with the nose about six inches from the freely-hanging rope, we face the centre of the circle. We now place one foot slightly in advance of the other (right foot if right-handed and vice versa), so as to increase our 'balance-base' fore and aft. Tom says experience will show us quickly that this stance is less fatiguing to the trunk muscles in ringing for long stretches. Without turning the head from facing centre, we swing our eyes at sally level from side to side and check whether we can see all ropes in turn. 'First watch Mary and me,' says Tom, 'then, when I call, try to join in as third bell. Remember, only a short pull and check!'

Then, 'Stand to for chiming!' he calls, and he on the treble and Mary on the second raise their arms and reach well up the sally and grasp it with both hands close together, touching in fact, leaving the rope's end hanging below, still tied in its loop.

'Treble's chiming!' calls Tom, pulling shortly and checking his rope, followed by Mary. We watch closely their action and we listen carefully to the rhythmic 'doh, te, doh, te, doh, te,' and we think we might manage to follow suit. 'Bring in the third!' calls Tom. So we reach up, grasp the sally and follow Mary. After a pull or two we manage to make our bell 'speak,' so we listen carefully and try to fit in our note of 'lah' after their 'doh, te,' so that we should hear, 'doh, te, lah, doh, te, lah,' in steady repetition. 'Cease!' calls Tom, and as the gently oscillating ropes come to a standstill we feel rather thrilled with our sweet, though short, very first stand-in to ring bells.

'That's only chiming, of course,' says Tom. 'Real ringing has quite a different rope action, as I'll demonstrate in our next lesson. Still, you've made a bell speak. Now don't rest content until you can make it speak just when and where you wish in relation to the other bells. But before you begin to learn to manage a "ringing" bell, I'll introduce you to the "pole and pigtail,"'

Wondering what that can be, we look forward to the next lesson, and in the meantime we try to recollect at least two dozen terms and tins introduced to us in this first visit to the tower.—Yours till next time,

CORN. R. STONE.

CHURCH AND LOYALTY

Dear Sir,—Two of our ringers, Mr. Frederick Blunden and Mr. William Curtis, have just completed 30 years' service as ringers at Storrington Church. This period was completed on New Year's Eve, when to celebrate the occasion they both took part in ringing a quarter peal, Grandsire Doubles, 1,260 changes. Both these gentlemen take a full part in the life of the church here, as do the other ringers.

Since ringing restarted after the war, our bells have been rung regularly twice every Sunday and on other special occasions. The enthusiasm of the older ringers has caused a junior band of ringers to start, and consequently we are never in want of ringers. The church here owes a big debt of gratitude to them for their loyal service.—Yours very truly,

W. G. FROSTICK

Rector and Rural Dean of Storrington.
